

JAMES HARRIGAN AND ANNE KENNEDY

James Harrigan was born in about 1804 of Tipperary town, likely the son of Peter Harrigan and Mary Ryan. James Harrigan of Tipperary married Anne Kennedy 16 February 1833 in Tipperary, County Tipperary, Ireland. James worked as a barber in Tipperary town.

*Marriage record for James Harrigan and Anne Kennedy in Tipperary town:
"16 Jas Horrigan Anne Kenedy Thos Stack Thos Sheedy"*

Anne Kennedy, the daughter of James Kennedy and Judith Anne Duane, was christened 17 October 1808 in Tipperary town.

James Harrigan is found in a list of Irish Poverty Relief Loans in Tipperary in the difficult economy of the Irish Famine. He borrowed £1, and paid it off over the year, starting in June 1846. "The Irish Reproductive Loan Fund was created in 1822 as the Irish Relief Committee with surplus relief funds from the famine of 1822, £55,000 in total. The money was reinvested into a microfinance institution, which gave short term loans for capital or reproductive purposes, such as purchasing fishing equipment, repairing sheds for curing fish or purchasing seeds for farming. The loans were never to exceed twelve months and the borrower was charged a modest interest rate. The whole system was centrally controlled in London, funds were distributed across ten county boards in Ireland and then further distributed to local associations. The committee became a corporation in June 1844, known as the Irish Reproductive Load-Fund Institution. The minimum age to borrow was 21 years old and the minimum amount was £1. The borrower supplied their address and occupation. Each loan was guaranteed by two sureties, who agreed to pay the loan if the borrower defaulted. Lending for most of the local associations ended by 1848." (Ireland, Poverty Relief Loans, 1821-1874) Find My Past)

James listed his residence as Church Lane in Tipperary town. His occupation was listed as "L". James made payments from 16 June 1846 until November 1846. This was just a month before Mary Harrigan was born.

Griffiths Valuation, Bohercrow townland, Tipperary town, 1851

James Harrigan is found on Bohercrow Street in Bohercrow townland, Tipperary town, in 1851 in Griffith's Valuation. He had a house and yard, but no acreage, so was not a farmer. His home had less than an acre of land. He was a town dweller, and his occupation was a barber. The Kennedys who were Anne's relatives in Tipperary lived on similar sized properties, and were grocers, bakers, butter merchants, and shoemakers. James was of the merchant class, which explains his daughter Mary's assertion that she was of higher class than her husband, who was descended from tenant farmers and cottiers. James Harrigan's next-door neighbor was Timothy Kennedy, Anne's nephew.

Bohercrow townland, Tipperary Town

Bohercrow is on the west side of Tipperary town.

Tipperary is a market town and a parish in the county of Tipperary. It is a place of great antiquity, and is supposed to have derived its name, Tipra-Rae, from the Irish for "the well of the plains". In 1831 the town had 1,042 houses. It was a market town. Michael Harrigan, who appeared as a sponsor of James' first son, is found in Griffith's Valuation in the townland of Carrownreddy in Tipperary town. Michael may be James' brother.

The Harrigans, often called "Hourigan" in Ireland are mainly found in Shronell and Lattin in County Tipperary. The cemetery in Shronell Cross has many Hourigans buried there.

On this page, and the next few pages are copies of letters written by Anne Carey Rossing to Thomas T. Carey. These letters were written in preparation for the family tree, in 1941.

Letter from Anne Carey Rossing, Mary Harrigan's daughter, circa 1941 discussing Harrigan ancestors

James and Anne had the following children:

1. Patrick was christened 13 January 1834 in Tipperary parish. One of the sponsors at his christening was Michael Harrigan, who may be a brother of James. The sponsors were Michael Harrigan and Catherine Heffernan.

13. Patrick of James Harrigan & Nancy Kennedy
Michael Harrigan & Catherine Hefferman

Patrick fought in the Civil War with Confederate forces, in Company B of the Virginia Infantry, and was never heard from by the family. In a letter, his niece Anne Carey, daughter of Mary Harrigan records: "Pat fought in Civil War with the Confederate army. No word was ever received from him. Mother often thought perhaps he was the father of Dr. Harrigan who looked much, very much like the Kennedy men. (Ed and I were the redheads in our family)." Patrick enlisted in Covington, Kentucky on May 14, 1861. The muster roll for Patrick (dated Feb 28 to June 30, 1862) shows that he was "absent sick since July 1861" He returned to action, and Patrick was wounded in action, and died in Richmond, Virginia on 23 March 1862. The muster roll for Patrick (dated June 30 to December 31, 1862) states: "Wounded in action on 23 (March 1862), and left on the field." Patrick is buried in Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond, Virginia. The Oakwood Restoration Committee says that "I did find a Patrick Harrigan, Company B, 1st Virginia Battalion, born 1-13-1834, died 3-16-1862, at Hollywood Cemetery in Section SS B, Lot 308. Since he was a Virginian, I was able to go to the Virginia Regimental Series for the 1st Virginia Battalion by Robert J. Driver and Kevin C. Ruffner. This is the information they show on him: "Harrigan, Patrick, Pvt, Co. B, Enlisted Covington 5/14/61. Absent sick in Richmond Hospital 7/19/61 until he died 3/62."

The 1st Virginia Battalion was known as the Irish Battalion. It was organized in May of 1861, the month that Patrick enlisted. Patrick became ill and was absent by July 19, 1861, as the battalion drove towards the First Battle of Bull Run, which took place two days later, on July 21. He must have recovered and returned to action, as a subsequent muster roll shows him being wounded in action. Patrick was wounded in action on March 23, 1862, which was the day of the First Battle of Kernstown in Virginia, under Stonewall Jackson. Jackson received incorrect intelligence that a small Union force was vulnerable, but it was in fact a full division, more than twice the size of Jackson's force. This was the only defeat of Jackson's career. In the battle, 80 soldiers were killed, and 375 were wounded on the Confederate side, including Patrick Harrigan, who was wounded in action and left on the field. The muster roll shows that he died at Richmond March 1862. He was buried in Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond, and his family never knew what happened to him. In 2010, Michelle Boyd, a descendant of Mary Harrigan Carey, visited the cemetery, but the grave is unmarked.

2. John was christened 17 March 1836 in Tipperary parish. The sponsors were James O'Doherty and Winifred Quinn. John Houregan of Bohercrow is found in the Petty Sessions Court records, charged with two related complaints in 1866: "Willfully trespassing in complainant's premises and passage to his office in Nelson Street in the town of Tipperary on the 25th" (Mr. John Andrews, complainant, Nathaniel Andrews, witness), and "Assaulting complainant in Nelson Street in the town of Tipperary on the 25th" (Mr. Nathaniel Andrews, complainant, Nathaniel Andrews, witness). It seems that John and the Andrews family had a disagreement. (Irish Petty Sessions Court Registers on findmypast, case dated 28 June 1866 for John Houregan of Bohercrow)

3. Johanna was christened 25 November 1838 in Tipperary parish. The sponsors were Edmund Kennedy and Mary Burke. Johanna, or Anne, married William Lynch 14 August 1859 in Clinton, Iowa, and settled in Clinton. He worked in a sawmill. They had the following children: Francis (1861), William (1864), Annie (Anna Theresa, born 7 December 1865, who married Michael McBride in 1889, and lived in Terre Haute; died 10 June 1954 in Vigo, Indiana), John (1868), Philip (July 1869), Mary (1872, called Josie, who became Mrs. Moore, and lived in Texas), Joseph (1874), Francis (1876), and Johanna (1879) married Edward B. Moore 5 June 1907 in Des Moines.

4. James was christened 16 May 1841 in Tipperary parish. The sponsors were Michael Kennedy and Judith Sheehy. He married Mary Shanahan in about 1868 in Brooklyn, New York, and had the following children: Mary Ann (1869), John (1870, who died in Chicago 23 December 1900), Margaret (1873, Mrs. Gredin of New York City), James (1874), Anne (1876), and Ella (1879, who married William Sanderson and died 6 October 1946 in New York City). James worked as a laborer, and then later in an iron foundry. James died 9 April 1897 in Kings, New York.

5. Mary was christened 25 September 1843 in Tipperary parish. The sponsors were Michael Kennedy and Ellen Sheedy. Mary may have died young.

*6. Mary was born 28 December 1846, and christened 29 December 1846 in Tipperary parish. The sponsor was Joanna Gorman. She married John Joseph Carey 13 July 1866 in St. Mary's Church in Chicago. They had fourteen children. She died 23 November 1923 in Chicago, and was buried 26 November 1923 in Calvary Cemetery.

7. Michael was christened 4 April 1850 in Tipperary parish. The sponsor was Maria Gorman.

8. Edmund was christened 6 February 1852 in Tipperary parish. The sponsor was Judith Mark.

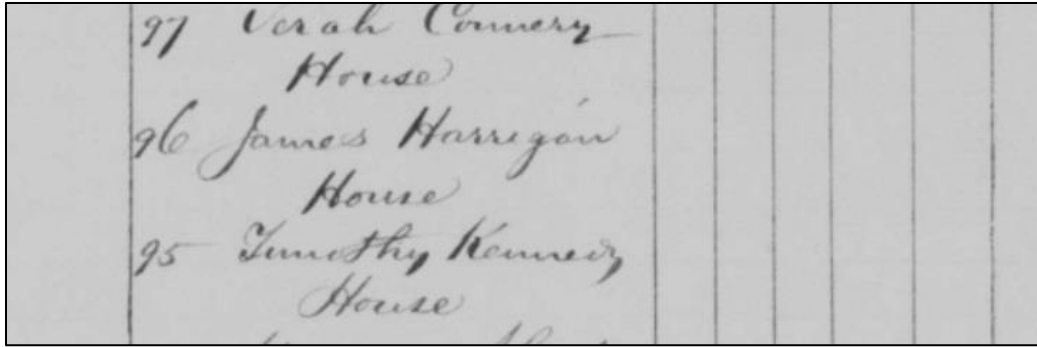

In preparation for Griffiths Valuation, several documents were created. One was the House Book, which shows James Harrigan in 1849 in Bohercrow townland in Tipperary.

House Book, Bohercrow townland, Tipperary town, County Tipperary for James Harrigan, 1849

James rented a house and yard on Lot 86 from John O'Leary. The house was 21 feet long, 18 feet wide, and 5 1/2 feet high. The house was rated 3B, which means that it was a medium-age thatched roof house of stone walls with mud mortar, or mud walls of the best kind, slightly decayed, but in good repair. It was valued at £1-16-7. The yearly rent was £1 per year. Next door, on Lot 87, Tim Kennedy rented a house only, which was 13.6 feet long by 13 feet wide by 6 feet tall.

A Field Book was created in 1851, which was created to show the quality of the land. Since James and his neighbors did not rent land, no indication is given for their property.

Quarto Book, Bohercrow townland, Tipperary town, County Tipperary for James Harrigan, 1851

The Quarto Books are house books for large towns showing the rent paid, the value of the house, and the occupier. James Harrigan lived on Lot 86, with a house and yard (in rear). The value was £0-12-0, and the yearly rent was £1. The terms of the lease were "holds from Mrs. O'Leary". The settled value was £0-18-0, with a comment "a small yard".

Timothy Kennedy lived next door, and rented a house. The surveyor added a comment to Timothy's entry and those of his two neighbors: "Miserable hovels - scarcely any value".

James was still found on Bohercrow Street in the valuation of 1858-1860. The record shows James Harrigan on Lot 70, leasing a house and yard from William King. The house was valued at twelve shillings.

James died 11 March 1876 in Tipperary town. His place of death was listed as Church Street, and Anne Harrigan was the informant, and present at his death. His occupation was barber, and he was 72 years old (making his birthdate about 1804). The cause of death was heart failure, along with anasarea (fluid retention, most likely due to heart failure).

Harrigans of County Tipperary

No christening records have been found for James Harrigan in County Tipperary. A search in 1986 with the Tipperary Heritage Unit, brought this response: "Unfortunately we could not find James. He must have been baptized in the period 1782-1804 for which the records are missing, presumed destroyed".

Tipperary Roman Catholic parish registers of marriage are available on the National Library of Ireland website (www.nli.ie) from 1793-1794, and then with a gap until July 1807-May 1809, and then from 1810 on. Additional records are available by commissioned search from Tipperary Family History Research. A careful search of the pre-1810 registers yielded these Harrigan marriages:

- Peter Harrigan married Mary Ryan 31 October 1802 in Tipperary town. The witnesses were Matthew Quillinan and Richard Sadlier.
- Michael Hourigan married Mary Long 7 February 1806 in Tipperary town. The witnesses were Margaret Long and Mary O'Brien.
- Matthew Hourigan married Catherine Hickey 13 November 1808 in Tipperary town. In November 1808, the marriage of "Conjuncti sunt Matheus Houragan & Catherine Hickey alias Flanagan (vidua) testes Honora Finn alias Haly et Winiforda Ryan" (Joined in marriage were Mathew Houragan and Catherine Hickey formerly Flanagan (widow), witnesses Honora Finn formerly Haly and Winifred Ryan). No children are found for this couple in the later baptismal registers.

Marriage for Mathew Hourigan and Catherine Flanagan Hickey in Tipperary Town, 1808

Research in the pre-1810 Tipperary town registers yields these baptisms:

- John Hourigan, baptized 4 May 1781 in Tipperary town, the son of Michael Hourigan and Mary Ryan. The sponsors were Edmund Murphy and Ellen Hamersley.
- John Hourigan, baptized 6 May 1807 in Tipperary town, the son of Michael Hourigan and Mary Long. The sponsors were Henry Cooper and Brigid Quillinan.
- Chris Hourigan, baptized 15 January 1807 in Tipperary town, the son of Joan Hourigan and John Meade (not married). The sponsor was Ellen Crowley.
- Winifred Hourigan, baptized 1 October 1809 in Tipperary town, the daughter of Matthew Hourigan and Catherine Hickey. The sponsors were John Connolly and Mary MacCarthy.

There are very few other Harrigan/Hourigans in the town of Tipperary. Richard Harrigan was found in Tipperary in the Tithe Applotment of 1828 in Barronstown Laffan, about 1 1/2 miles northwest of Bohercrow, in Tipperary town. Michael Hourigan/Harrigan was found in the townland of Carrownreddy in Griffith's Valuation (1850), and is also a sponsor of James Harrigan's oldest son, Patrick, so may be a brother of James. He had a house and yard, and lived next to Morgan Kennedy. Another Hourigan found in Griffith's Valuation in Carrownreddy in Tipperary town was John Hourigan. He had a house with no yard. He may be another brother. One other Hourigan was found in Tipperary in Griffith's Valuation - Honoria Hourigan on Gaol Lane in Tipperary town. She had a house with no yard.

Tipperary baptismal registers are available online from 1810, and by commissioned research from 1780 to 1809. There are many missing years, including 1804.

The families of Michael Hourigan and Mary Long, Matthew Hourigan and Catherine Hickey, John Hourigan and Judith Rawley, Joan Hourigan and John Meade (not married), and John Harrigan and Catherine Bohan (not married) all were eliminated as possible parents for James Harrigan, as they started having children too late.

Patrick Hourigan was listed as a witness at a wedding in 1810. James' firstborn son was named Patrick.

There are no Harrigan/Hourigans in Tipperary in the Religious Census of 1766. One Hourigan is listed in the 1766 Census of Tipperary, in the "United parishes of Latin, Bruis, Shronell, Corroque, Clonpet & Cordangan in the County Tipperary & Diocese of Cashel". This is James Hoiragan, and he is listed as Catholic. Shronell is about three miles southwest of Tipperary town. There are also some Hourigans in "Cullen, Soloheadmore, and Soloheadbeg", which is about five miles north of Tipperary town. These Hourigans are listed: Mathias Houragan, Mathew Houragan, John Harigan, Pat Hourigan, and Thomas Haragan.

The Harrigans don't appear to have deep roots in Tipperary town, but may have come from Shronell, about three miles southwest of Tipperary town. Parish records in Shronell don't start until 1846, but in the Shronell gravestone inscriptions we find the family of Patrick Hourigan (born about 1771) and Eleanor Bergin (born about 1781). They had children Patrick, Catherine, and James. Could this be our James? The children would have been born in the right time period, about 1801-1810. Patrick, the son, was born in about 1806. Patrick, the father, died at the age of 47 in Shronell on 18 February 1818. Eleanor died 1 May 1851 in Shronell at the age of 70. However, the gravestone also lists James (1836) and Catherine Hourigan (1842), Patrick's niece and nephew. They aren't Patrick's children. Catherine, the sister, died in 1826 at the age of 20, so they can't be her children. So, it seems like they must be the children of James, the only other listed child of Patrick and Eleanor Hourigan. This would eliminate them as our James' possible parents.

Who were James Harrigan's parents?

Reviewing the possibilities for James Harrigan's parents, it is possible that Richard Harigan, shown in the Tithe Applotment could be of the right age, but he has left no marriage or children's baptismal records in the parish register. There is a Patrick Harrigan acting as a witness in 1810, and James' oldest son was named Patrick.

It seems most likely that James Harrigan's parents were Peter Harrigan and Mary Ryan, who married in 1802, a year or two before his birth.

Tipperary Town

Christening Records

The release of the Roman Catholic parish registers on the National Library of Ireland (www.nli.ie) makes it possible to reconstruct Harrigan families in Tipperary town in the early 19th century. Access to civil records on irishgenealogy.ie adds to our knowledge of these families. The Tipperary Roman Catholic registers started in 1780, but only the registers from 1810 on are available online. The earlier registers are only available through commissioned search through the Tipperary Family History Research organization.

Baptisms are found for three daughters of James Hourigan and Catherine Ryan in the parish of Cullen and Lattin: Ellen (2 June 1849), Catherine (1 July 1851), and Mary (12 May 1854). Cullen and Lattin are about five miles west of Tipperary town.

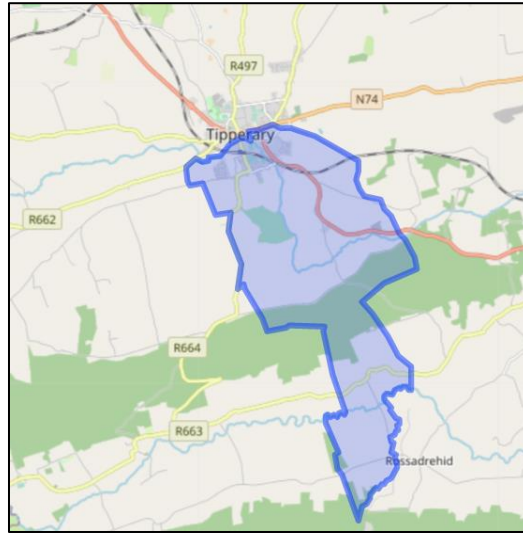

There are also christenings in Cullen and Lattin for two daughters of James Hourigan and Ellen Hayes: Mary (8 July 1847) and Ellen (7 February 1851).

No Hourigans are listed in the 1766 Census of Tipperary in the town of Tipperary. Perhaps the family migrated to the town from a nearby village.

- In the "United parishes of Latin, Bruis, Shronell, Corroogue, Clonpet & Cordangan in the County Tipperary & Diocese of Cashel", James Hoiragan is listed as Catholic. Cordangan is only about two miles south of Tipperary town. Shronell is about five miles from Tipperary town and was later the home of many Hourigans. The proximity makes this seem like the most likely option.

Cordangan parish

- In "Cullen, Soloheadmore, and Soloheadbeg", which is about five miles from Tipperary town, these Hourigans are listed: Mathias Houragan, Mathew Houragan, John Harigan, Pat Hourigan, and Thomas Haragan.

In Pender's Census of 1659, the largest number of Harrigans are found in the barony of Clanwilliam, which includes both Shronell and Tipperary town. In the Principall Irish Names and their Number section the name is shown as O Howrogane, O Howrigane & O Howregane, 21.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF PETER HARRIGAN AND MARY RYAN

This family group is speculative, based on christening, marriage, and land records.

Peter Harrigan was born in about 1780 of Tipperary town. (He is shown as Peter (Petrus in Latin) Harrigan on the 1802 extraction for the Tipperary Roman Catholic parish register. The original record is not available for viewing. The early Tipperary records are often difficult to read. It may be that the entry was for Patrick (Patricius in Latin), but extracted as Peter. That would be more in line with the Irish naming tradition, as James had a son named Patrick, his oldest-born. He married Mary Ryan 31 October 1802 in Tipperary town.

Peter and Mary had these children:

- *1. James, born in about 1804 of Tipperary town; married Anne Kennedy 16 February 1833 in Tipperary town; died 11 March 1876 in Tipperary town.
2. Michael, born in about 1805 of Tipperary town, acted as a sponsor for James' oldest son Patrick in 1834; married Ellen Corbet in about 1833.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF MICHAEL HOURIGAN AND MARY RYAN

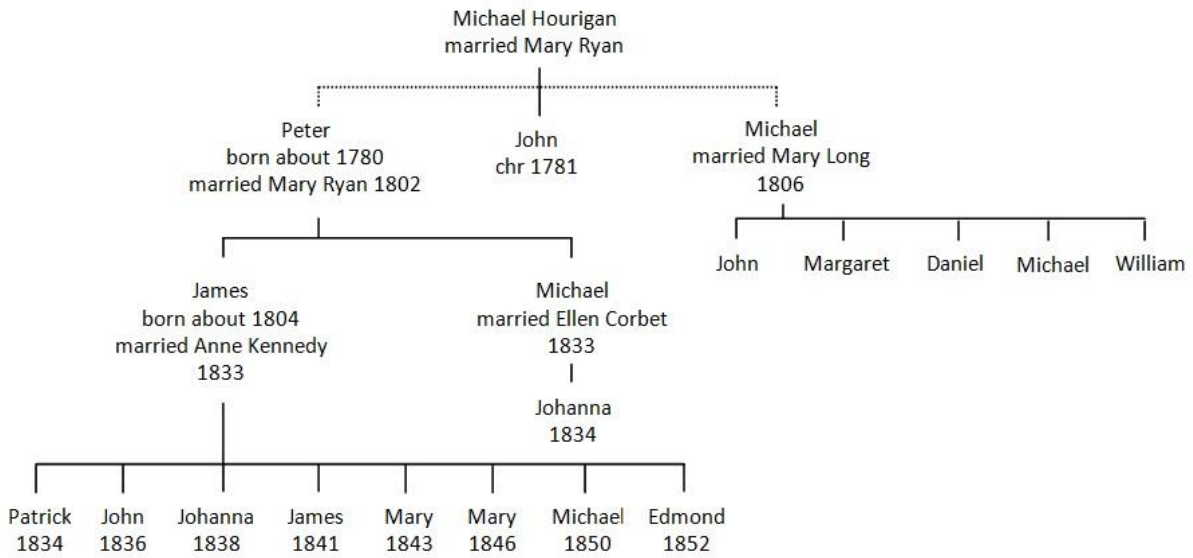

The only Harrigan/Hourigan couple who were married in Tipperary town who were of an age to have been Peter's parents were Michael Hourigan and Mary Ryan. James Harrigan did have a son named Michael.

Michael may be the son of James Hoiragan of Cordangan/Shronell as found in the 1766 Religious Census.

Michael and Mary had the following children:

- *1. Peter, born in about 1780; married Mary Ryan.
2. John, christened 4 May 1781 in Tipperary town.
3. Michael, born in about 1784; married Mary Long 7 February 1806.
