Wills exist for:

- William Horrocks husbandman of Rumworth, Deane 1606. William mentioned his "nowe wyffe" Jenet and the children "begotten of the bodie of my nowe wyffe Jenet" - James, Marie and William. William was described as an infant. Marie was described as being under the age of 14 years. William called them my youngest children. William and Marie's inheritances were under the supervision of William Sr.'s brother-in-law Adam Platt and cousin Cuthbert Platt. James' age was not listed, but he was shown as owing a debt to his father of just over £30, so must have been old enough to be responsible for repayment of the debt. William also listed a daughter Jane, the wife of George Pendleburie. She was not called a child of Jenet's, so may have been a child from a previous marriage. This William is possibly the son of the William Horrocks who was born in 1525. (Will of William Horrocks of Rumworth, 1606)
- Robert Horrocks of Deane in 1549/50. Possibly this is William's (1525) father.

The Horrocks family "derived its name from Horrox, or Horrocks Fold (otherwise, in early records, Horrocks Forth), near Rumworth, N.W. of Bolton." (The Observatory: Vol 6-7, pg 318)
